THE COMMON SCHOOLS.

DR. J. D. MADDOX, Buford.

Well-Written, Brief, Terse and Pointer

Articles Under this Head, Solicited. The efficiency of the school system in this State is not dependent on any newer or better law, except only as that law may relate to the financial aspect of the question. Divested of all verbiage the school question resolves itself into the simple proposition, is there money enough to support the system! The matter of grade, attendance, modern improvements, government, enthusiasm will follow the advent of a competent teacher in the school room, as naturally as night follows day. It all parties in interest act on this proposition, the best interests of the schools will be subserved. A good teacher, well paid is the underlying principle of successful schools.
